How the PopXport Ranking system works

To make it into our list, a single or album must have entered the official music charts in the UK, the US, OR another music market outside of Germany, Austria and Switzerland.

Live albums, compilations, or 'best of' albums are not included.

These singles or albums are rated by their highest chart position in Germany, their highest chart position in the UK, their highest chart position in the USA and their highest chart position in another country excluding Austria and Switzerland.

Only singles and albums produced in Germany are taken into account. The artist or the producer must be a German citizen or have been registered to live in Germany as their main place of residence at the time the single or album was released, or at the height of their success.

Once singles or albums have made it into the list, they receive points for their chart positions in Germany, the UK, the USA, and one other country. A number 1 in the charts is worth 100 points, while a number 99 is worth 1 point. Correspondingly, a number 31 in the charts is worth 69 points, for example. The size of the music markets analyzed also plays a role in the point scoring system. The points gained for a position in the German charts are multiplied by 1.1. For a position in the UK charts, the points are multiplied by 1.2, and the points gained for a position in the US charts are multiplied by 1.3. den amerikanischen Markt mit dem Faktor 1,3.
